Have Been Employed as Conductors on City Lines Since August

GOVERNMENT ASKS COMPANY NOT TO DISMISS WOMEN

Strikers Declare Company Did Not Keep Agreement With Union

Cleveland, Dec. 3.—To enforce their demand upon the Cleveland Railway company for the dismissal of women employed as conductors since last August, 2,400 motormen and conductors went on strike at 5 o'clock this morning.

The last night car from downtown left the center of the city at 5 o'clock, the employees agreeing to take their cars to the barns.

Mayor Davis left for Washington last night to put the question before the war labor board for arbitration after the street car employees voted down a proposition by the mayor to defer action until the war labor board could consider the questions at issue.

The employees justify their quitting work on the ground that an agreement with the company for the removal of the women on November 1 and recently extended until December 1, was ignored.

The company, on its part, asserts that it received a telegram Saturday from the secretary of the national war labor board at Washington asking it to retain the women in its employ until their status was finally determined by the war labor board.

William D. Mahon of Detroit, president of the International Union of Street Car Men is expected here for a conference with both parties.

The company's mail service will not be interrupted.

The car men rejected an offer of mediation by the city this morning and the situation was one of absolute deadlock with no immediate prospect of a settlement.

CROWN PRINCE SHOWS FLASH OF INTELLIGENCE

Says He Knew Germans Were Licked After First Marne—Wanted Peace Then.

Oosterland, Holland, Dec. 3.—"I have not renounced anything and I have not signed any document whatever," the former German crown prince declared to the correspondent today.

"I was convinced," the former crown prince said to his interviewer, "that we had lost the war early in October, 1914. I considered our position hopeless after the battle of the Marne which we should not have lost if the chiefs of our general staff had not suffered a case of nerves."

"I tried to persuade the general staff to seek peace then, even at a great sacrifice, going as far as to give up Alsace-Lorraine, but I was told to mind my own business and confine my activities to commanding my armies. I have proof of this."

New York, Dec. 3.—The transport George Washington, newly painted a battleship grey and handsomely decorated, has steam up today at her dock in New York harbor, ready to receive President Wilson and the peace delegates to France.

The exact time of the vessel's departure has not been made public, but officials seemed expectant that the ship would get under way about noon Wednesday.

One of the principal tasks of the special force of 200 workers was to enclose the promenade deck in glass to ward off the December gales. Decorators and fitters gave particular attention to fitting up the suite of the president, which will occupy Mrs. Wilson's quarters will be directly opposite those of the president. Forty-nine state rooms have been prepared for possible occupants.

ALLIES MAY NOT STOP AT RHINE

Berlin Dispatch Says Ultimatum Has Been Delivered By Entente About Armistice

London, Dec. 3.—A Reuter dispatch from Berlin today confirms the delivery of the ultimatum, the time limit of which is 24 hours. It says Matthias Erzberger (of the German armistice commission), offered to deliver all the locomotives as soon as they were repaired.

The German newspapers, adds the dispatch, point out that there is no hope of prolonging the armistice and that it is likely the allies will occupy Germany.

The foregoing comes as an add to a London dispatch which has not been received. It appears to indicate the delivery of an allied ultimatum to Germany, for non-compliance with armistice terms with a threat to proceed with the occupation of Germany if these are not complied with.

YANKS CONTINUE MARCH TOWARD CITY OF COBLENZ

Traveling Nine Miles a Day Army Will Soon Reach Objective

WILL OCCUPY CROSSING OF RHINE RIVER THERE

Line Along River Held by Americans Will Be 43 Miles Long

Washington, Dec. 3.—After their first night's sleep in Germany, the American troops of the army of occupation were ready at dawn this morning to resume their march toward the Rhine. In advance toward Coblenz, the American forces are moving ahead astride the Moselle, traveling in a northeasterly direction.

Across the Rhine, the American army will take up a line a little over 30 miles in length. It will consist of a circle, having Coblenz as a center and with a radius of 18.6 miles in length. This circle pivoting upon Coblenz is the bridgehead which the Germans conceded in the armistice. The line leaves the Rhine at a point north of Coblenz, crosses the river and turns to the south, just beyond Roßbach, reaching the Rhine again at Caub.

Along the Rhine, the Americans will occupy a line about 43 miles in length. The front will extend a few miles beyond either end of the circle, as described above, thus overlapping in places the lines of the British on the left and the French on the right.

During the advance toward Coblenz the American lines extend about 21 miles on "side of the Moselle." The Americans are expected to travel from seven to nine miles each marching day with a day or two of rest at intervals. The rest days will be decided upon by the commanders as the advance continues. Much will depend on how the men and animals stand the trip and the way the "cavalry" service keeps up with the troops.

UKRAINIANS WANT LEMBURG CAPITAL

Will Attempt to Starve Out Polish Troops Which Are Now In Control of City

Vienna, Monday, Dec. 2.—Travelers arriving from Lemberg state that Ukrainian troops are preparing to surround and starve out the city which the Polish force are in control. The Ukrainians are said to have already cut the railroad and are being reinforced by sufficient troops returning from the Russian front to make a fight against the Poles.

The Ukrainians deny that they are Bolsheviks, but say that when the Austrian empire was broken up they felt they had a right to the capital city of Galicia, a position having other claims. Difficulties have been anticipated between the Poles and Czechs over the possession of Lemberg, a town of Austrian Silesia.

Conditions in Galicia and Silesia are said to be worse than they were during the war. Cases of famine and plagues are being reported. The Ukrainians are said to be starving the Poles and Czechs from the various fronts and are paying them several dollars per day for fighting. Officers are also being well paid for engaging in hostilities.

Complete Reports Have Not Been Sent In—64 Cases Listed Sunday

Several new cases of influenza continue to develop each day. Sixty-four new cases developing over Sunday were reported Monday, and on Monday 42 cases developed, which were reported up to noon today.

NAVAL FORCE COULD CONTROL BOLSHEVIKI

Berlin, Monday, Dec. 2.—If a few British torpedo boats or light cruisers, with even a small landing force, could reach Reval this week they could damp the Bolshevik flood which has been murdering, burning and plundering Estonia and Livonia, according to a declaration made to the correspondent by Baron Aexkuell, of Estonia, who escaped from that country on Thursday in disguise.

Baron Aexkuell reports that German forces had begun to evacuate Narva, when they were attacked and defeated by Russian troops.

Esthonian workmen are nearly all Bolsheviks, according to Baron Aexkuell, and the middle classes of Estonia and Livonia are facing the same return of terror that the Bourgeois of Russia have suffered.

FRENCH FILE CLAIMS AGAINST GERMAN GOVT.

Paris, Dec. 3.—French citizens are lodging complaints with Attorney General Lescroart against the German army under Wilhelm Hohenzollern, the former emperor. Several persons who lost relatives in the bombardment of Paris by the German long range guns have filed their complaints.

In the case of Madame Prieur, whose husband was killed on the torpedoed mail steamer Sussex, the attorney general declares that the steamer was an extension of French soil and consequently the French authorities are competent to make an investigation.

A decision with regard to the complaint against the former emperor will be reached within a few days. If it is decided that French tribunals are competent to open proceedings, a judge will be appointed.

One of the first acts of the judge will be to ask for the extradition of Wilhelm Hohenzollern.

ARMY AVIATOR DOES STUNTS

Executes Loops, Rolls and Thrilling Drops Before
Discovering Damage to Plane.

Lieutenant L. C. Tynes, who stopped over the city in an airplane flight from the Wilbur Wright field to Pittsburgh last Sunday evening, alighting on the Wehrle farm adjoining Mountbalders park, attempted to resume his journey shortly after 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, but was forced to alight after he had discovered two broken parts.

Lieutenant Tynes took the air and before starting on a direct course for the Smoky City gave a wonderful exhibition of fancy stunts with his single-seated Standard scout, looping-the-loop a number of times, and demonstrating the barrel roll, the machine turning over and over like a barrel being rolled. He then did the difficult loop-the-loop. He started east but had not traveled far when he discovered the breaks and turned and again alighted on the Wehrle farm.

A second machine, double-seated, in charge of a lieutenant and mechanic, which had brought several new parts for Lieutenant Tynes, arrived at 11:30. Then took the air and left for Dayton at 3 o'clock, and another machine with new parts is expected this afternoon. Lieutenant Tynes hopes to be able to resume his journey in time to give fancy flights during the war exposition which is being held at Pittsburgh.

Explodes After It Is Described.
Three Hurt.

Mrs. Charles Ross of Kreis street, has a letter from her husband, Private Chas. Ross, a former B. O. fireman, in which he tells of being injured.

The letter was written on November 1 from a hospital. Private Ross with two companions were on a battlefield and picked up an unusual looking shell, one of the men dropped it and it exploded, injuring the three of them. Ross states that it was a miracle his foot was not blown off, and as it was indicated a serious wound on the right foot. He is a member of Company D, 120th infantry, first battalion.

The shell which caught the three of them was a German hand grenade, which had not exploded. It was of the type known as a "potato-masher." Private Ross is now in a hospital in England.

PROBE PRE-WAR METHODS OF KAISER'S GOVERNMENT

(Associated Press Telegram)
London, Dec. 3.—The German government is still undecided as to how to deal with the former emperor and the Hohenzollerns, said Hugo Haase secretary for foreign affairs in the German cabinet to a correspondent of the Express on Sunday.

"I think," he continued, "they may be sufficiently punished by the later national odium they have incurred."

Discussing the war, Haase said: "The guilt of starting the struggle lies with both German and Austrian militarism. The government is now investigating the pre-war methods of the foreign office, particularly regarding the handling of secret funds. The result will be published as soon as the investigation is completed."

WYETH STOPS LETTER TO WATCH SHELL'S COURSE

Claude S. Wyeth of Battery D, 324th F. A. (heavy), writes of his experiences on the front. The letter, written on October 18, in a dugout, follows:

"I just crawled in. Have been out seeing to the feed for our horses. It is real dark now as it gets dark about 5:30 here. The shells have been buzzing quite a good deal tonight, although right at this moment things are real still. This was a clear day and aeroplanes, both of the allies and the boche, were busy. Some air battles and, of course,

CLAUDE WYETH,

some battery locations were made by both sides resulting in more firing than usual this evening. Some of the shells make a hole large enough to bury a team in, and a few much larger, although the majority of holes are much smaller. A railroad near here is literally blown to pieces by the mighty shells. We have been bothered very little with gas, but am always to be ready.

"I walked over to the lake today, about 1 1/2 miles, to get a little candy, etc., from a Y. M. C. A. truck, but it did not come. However, I got a cake of chocolate of a first-aid station man. Sweets are in great demand. We had bacon, rice and peaches, bread and coffee (always) for breakfast. Not bad considering we are at the front. I just heard a shell coming our way and, of course, stopped to see where it was going to light, but seemed to be some distance away. I haven't seen Gleason for about a week, but there were no more casualties, either at the guns or horse lines, this evening. I was lucky enough to get a letter today. I surely have got a lot of good out of the farm papers you sent. My one great thought is to do the part set aside for me to do to help win this war."

WANTS ACTION TO HALT AMENDMENT

Wets Attempt To Block
Ratification of Federal Prohibition Amendment
To Constitution.

(Associated Press Telegram)
Columbus, Dec. 3.—An effort to block ratification of the federal prohibition amendment by the state legislature was started by Ohio wets on Monday when Attorney Aaron A. Perdue of Cincinnati, representing wets, made formal demand on Attorney General McGhee that he immediately institute court action to prevent Governor Cox from transmitting the amendment to the legislature for action. He asked that objection be brought either in the state or federal courts and states that if the attorney general does not bring the action before December 5, he himself will do so.

ORDERED TO SEAL DRAFT RECORD HERE

The clerk of the local draft board has been notified to seal all records in his office on December 10. As the method of sealing or the disposition of the records for instructions have been received, the clerk has been instructed to exercise the greatest care in seeing that even a sheet of paper is not taken from the office.

After that time the instructions state that the state department will issue further orders.

American Red Cross Presents Twelve-Star Service Pin to Colored Minister.

The Rev. R. H. Windsor of Rayville, La., and the Twelve-Star Service Pin Presented to Him by the American Red Cross.

Having the right to and needing a twelve-star service pin, the Rev. R. H. Windsor of Rayville, La., a zealous Red Cross worker, has been presented with a unique decoration by the American Red Cross. The father of nine sons, twelve of whom are with the colors, this genial colored minister of the Baptist church probably holds the record for sons in the military service of the United States. If there are any others with similar or better status, they are yet to be heard from.

In the accompanying illustration of the twelve-star pin, topped with the Red Cross insignia, it will be noted that the first bar bears five stars. These represent five individual sons—Remie, Robin, Jeff, Johnnie and Archie. The next bar bears two stars representing twins, George and Lafayette. The next bar is similarly decorated, representing William and James, also twins; and the bottom bar, with its three stars, represents the triplets, Matthew, Mark and Luke. Eight of the boys are volunteers, and the other four were called in the draft.

Upon hearing of the remarkable record of the Windsor family, President Wilson, who is also president of the American Red Cross, wrote to the Rev. Mr. Windsor as follows:

"I am writing to say with what interest and admiration I have learned of the fact that twelve of your sons are in the service of our country, and the thirteenth impatiently waiting to follow them in. This is a splendid record, and I congratulate you from the bottom of my heart. The colored troops have proved themselves the soldiers."

TYPHOID-PNEUMONIA CAUSES DAVID'S DEATH

Word has been received of the death in Italy of Top Sergeant Arthur N. David of Akron. Sergeant David is the nephew of Mrs. Henry Swern of Cedar street and Mrs. Jeanette Swern of Oakwood avenue this city.

He was formerly salesman for the Goodyear Rubber company of Akron and trained at Camp Sherman with the 83rd division. He was attached to the 322d Infantry. Death followed an illness of typhoid pneumonia.

RED CROSS SHIPS 800 PARCELS

Women's Committee Inspects Parcels Sent to Soldiers Overseas by Newark Relatives.

Eight hundred Christmas parcels addressed to soldiers in the service were inspected and shipped from the Red Cross headquarters here during the month of November, according to an announcement made today by the Red Cross. The committee in charge of the inspection consisted of Mrs. Rollin Spoor, Mrs. Frank Wilson, Frank Webb, Mrs. Virginia Merion, Mrs. B. S. Swingle, Mrs. Mary Duncey, Mrs. E. E. Baird, Mrs. Will Pittsibon, Mrs. Edward Pearsall and Mrs. Edward Thomas.

Donations of money for the purchase of ribbons and stickers made it possible to make all the parcels equally attractive to the soldier who receives them.

MEAL OF FRIED EGGS AND POTATOES ENJOYED

Newark Soldier on Leave Has French Girl Prepare Dinner Which Is "Made to Order."

William H. Luetschslager, storekeeper at the Stoyseff restaurant in the Arcade annex has received a letter from Private Fred J. Boyne of the 309th ammunition train in which he tells of his travels since leaving Camp Sherman until his arrival in France. He tells of one good meal he had while on leave at a nearby village, where he had veal chops, fried eggs, and French fried potatoes, cooked by a French girl. His letter says:

"It is hard to write a letter over here. You can't write much—only about our trip and how we are getting along. I started out several times to write a few letters and I would get interested in a card game and forget all about it. We surely have traveled some since we left Camp Sherman. We were 17 days coming over. Most of the boys come across in seven and eight days. We won't be that long going back. They won't have to do any submarine work. We landed in Liverpool, England. The channel was awful rough coming from England to France. We rode for three days in box cars, but had no trouble.

"I suppose they are having some big time back in the states now. I don't know when we will get back. I suppose we will have to haul all this ammunition and junk back from the front now. They might send some of us to Germany and Austria till things get settled down. I wish they would. We might as well see all we can while we have the chance. I visited one of the villages called St. Medard Sunday, about six miles from here. We had to hike it. We had our supper there. We bought a couple of pounds of veal chops and had a French girl to cook them for us with four eggs a piece and French fried potatoes, bread, butter and plenty of good wine to drink.

"In England the traffic is just the opposite of ours. They go up on the left and down on the right. All the heavy trucks there are run by steam."

GRAND

An example of an absolutely clean photoplay is furnished by "The Street of Seven Stars," which is to be the attraction at the Grand theatre on Thursday and Friday, with Doris Kenyon heading her own company. That such plays can be put out in a way that will make them popular is evidenced by the high tribute of the reviewers of the press and trade papers to the popular quality of this truly human story by Mary Roberts Rinehart. It is irresistible. Doris Kenyon lends a charm and fascination to the picture that is quite distinctive.

On that date the greatest pair of laugh inventors now appearing on the screen, the inimitable Lee children, are announced in their latest comedy drama, "Swat the Spy." It is an off-repeated assertion that the productions in which Jane and Katherine are featured have made as many new attendance records as those of any other famous comedy stars. "Swat the Spy" is heralded as the diminutive stars' best creation.

Wednesday.

Poor Thomas Timothy Tubbs, minister of Divinity, leading a blase life of ease and serenity for some sixty odd years, turned on the hot water in the bathtub one noonday and sank with a solid sigh of content into the soothing waters when suddenly the door flew open with a crash of violence and there before his startled eyes stood the arch enemy to all ease and softness in life—Douglas Fairbanks!

Fairbanks had special business with Timothy Tubbs. There was a pretty girl that he wanted to marry, and he was in a great hurry, as he always is. In fact, the girl's father was not on his trail. Timothy put up an objection. It was eloquent and calculated to melt a heart of stone. But things began to happen. "The Matrimaniac," wheeled Timothy Tubbs is pounced, bounced, jounced and jalled after a series of neck-breaking adventures on hand-cars, freights and in padded cells, will be shown at the Gem theatre Wednesday.

The attraction, "Darktown Follies," is a comedy in four acts by Catherine Chisholm Cushing, and is based on the novel of the same name by Eleanor H. Porter. The comedy is of a high class and the quaint sayings of the little "glad-girl" and the pathos which she injected into her work at times kept her audience interested throughout the evening.

"Darktown Follies" is the attraction tonight which is said to be filled with jingle, fun, music and melody and a chorus which is incomparable.

"Woman and Wife."

In "Woman and Wife," the Select Star Series photodrama, adapted from "Jane Eyre," the immortal novel by Charlotte Bronte which will be shown at the Auditorium theatre tomorrow, Alice Brady rises to great heights in her delineation of the unfortunate heroine. Ousted from the home of the Reeds, the rich relatives with whom she is living at the opening of the story, because of the death of her husband, Jane Eyre is sent to an institution presided over by the cruel Mr. Brocklehurst. Here she wins all hearts, and luckily escapes from its irksome confines when she secures a position as governess to Adele, the daughter of Edward Rochester.

Rochester's wife, Valerie, had become insane, and he had been told by her mother that she is dead. When, however, he falls in love with Jane and announces his intention of marrying her, Valerie's brother Raoul, who is in bad financial straits, brings her to Rochester's apartment.

An extra added feature is the Red Cross picture "Building Broken Fires."

Theda Bara in "Salome."

"Salome," with the heroine interpreted by the vampire de luxe, Theda Bara, comes to the Auditorium theatre Thursday and Friday of this week in the most pretentious and costly production yet essayed by William Fox, prolific producer of Cinema Classics, for a limited engagement of two days. Two performances daily.

The attraction, it is announced, is reserved for first-class theatres only and will be shown throughout the country at the popular scale of prices usually in force at such theatres. The production is declared to be sensational in its thrills, histrionically as well as scenically, and its impressiveness emphasized by a special orchestral score. The settings, while described as gorgeous and gargantuan, are declared not to overawe the action of the play.

It is pointed out by the management that two factors which safeguard "Salome" against the danger of developing into mere pageantry and spectacle were Theda Bara's special aptitude for the delineation of such roles as the one assumed in "Salome" and the inherent dramatic strength of the story, which remains dominant.

Seats now on sale for matinee and evening performances.

Auditorium Notes.

Mr. Fenberg is bringing to Newark some very good road shows, for last night "Polyanna," a big New York production was seen by fairly good crowds. Tonight another New York attraction, "Darktown Follies," is playing and next Saturday "Experience" the hit of last year returns.

"Oh, Lady, Lady," now playing in Columbus at the Hartman is the same company that will be seen at Mr. Fenberg's playhouse December 31st and January 1st.

Charlie Chaplin's next Million Dollar signature protected picture coming to the Auditorium will be "Shoulder Arms."

Harry Carey's famous special attractions, "Three Mounted Men," will be the feature at the Auditorium next Sunday.

In the cast with Alice Brady in "Woman and Wife" at the Auditorium tomorrow is seen Elliott Dexter, Helen Green, Helen Lindroth, Victor Benoit, Lenora Morgan and other.

GRANVILLE

(Special to The Advocate.)
Granville, Dec. 3.—The study of Russia, that strange and most mysterious of all countries, became increasingly interesting as presented each Monday afternoon at the Travelers' club. Under the Empress Elizabeth the country had partially emerged from eastern barbarism, and had embraced French culture. From 1773 to 1891, under the reign of the brilliant, fascinating and intellectual Catherine II., whose moral turpitude was exceeded by her wonderful statecraft, the national boundaries were extended and the internal policies strengthened. Under this empress, with the body of a German, the mind of a Frenchman, and the heart of a Russian, the country flourished as never before. Literature and the arts thrived, men of letters were honored, and their name has since become legion. The Russian novel has a distinctive place in the world's literature, and Russian masterpieces of fiction will stand the test of time. Anarchy and nihilism, the outgrowth of despotism, had their greatest development in this unhappy country, and the end is not yet. At yesterday's meeting Mrs. Anna Campbell gave a comprehensive treatment of "Catherine and the Duke Paul, 1762-1801," a paper full of human interest. Mrs. W. E. Clemons, in a paper on

HUMAN LIFE HAS LITTLE VALUE
Soldier Says It Seems Least Valuable Thing on Field During Heat of Battle.

Mrs. Oliver Boulton of North Buena Vista street, received an interesting letter from her brother, Private Bernard A. Martin, Co. F, 12th Infantry, France, telling of his experiences in the Chateau Thierry drive and the Battle of the Marne. He was wounded in the Battle of Soissons about Aug. 4 and since leaving the hospital had been in a casual camp awaiting to go back to the front. Parts of the letter follow:

"I will now answer your letter which I received while in the hospital. I am in a casual camp now, waiting for transportation back to the front, or in other words, back to the living hell. I surely do hate to go back, but I suppose staying in camp isn't going to win the war. I wish it was over, for I am tired of this life. It is enough to set one crazy to get up on the front and see how little human life is valued. I heard my old Camp Meade company is fighting on the front now. It is all National Army fighting in the front trenches now. Our allies are in the rear trenches resting, and will be sent in to take some hard positions when the time comes. My division is back on rest. It is a shock outfit, and when there is something hard to do we have to do it.

"We were on the Lorraine front in July, but things were pretty quiet there. Our next trip was to Paris.

Chicago Grain and Provisions.
Chicago, Dec. 3.—Profit-taking on the part of recent buyers tended today to ease the corn market. Opening prices, which advanced from 1/2c off to 1/2c advance, with December 1.28 1/2c, were followed by slight gains and then by a moderate general setback. Oats averaged lower with corn. After opening at 1/2c down to 1/2c advance, with January 72 1/2c to 72 1/2c, the market underwent a material sag. Higher quotations on hogs gave strength to provisions. Offerings were light.

PRESIDENT DEALS WITH RAILROADS

In Address to Congress He Urges Careful Consideration of Question

Defends Proposed Trip to Allied Peace Conference in France

Washington, Dec. 3.—President Wilson, in his address to congress yesterday, dealt with questions of reconstruction and administration of the railroads under government control. The address in full follows:

Gentlemen of the Congress—The year that has elapsed since I last stood before you to fulfill my constitutional duty to present to the congress from time to time, information on the state of the union, has been so crowded with great events, great processes and great results, that I cannot hope to give you an adequate picture of its transactions or of the far-reaching changes which have been wrought in the life of our nation and of the world. You have yourselves witnessed these things, as I have. It is too soon to assess their full meaning and to stand in the midst of them and be part of them are less qualified than men of another generation will be to say what they mean or even what they have been. But some great outstanding facts are unmistakable and constant in a sense part of the public business which it is our duty to deal with. To state there is to set the stage for legislative and executive action which must grow out of them and which we have to shape and determine.

A year ago we had sent 145,000 men overseas. Since then we have sent 1,950,513, an average of 162,544 each month, the number in fact, rising in May last to 245,951, in June, 278,760, in July to 307,182, and continuing to reach similar figures in August and September, in August 289,570, and in September 257,438.

No such movement of troops ever took place before across 3000 miles of sea followed by adequate equipment and supplies, and carried safely through extraordinary dangers of attack—dangers which were alike strange and unfamiliar, difficult to guard against. In all this movement only 758 men were lost by enemy attacks—630 of whom were in a single English transport which was sunk near the Orkney Islands.

I need not tell you what lay back of this great movement of men and material. It is not invidious to say that back of it lay a supporting organization of the industries of the country and of all its productive activities made complete, more thorough in method and effective in results, more spirited and unanimous in purpose and effort than any other great belligerent had ever been able to exact. We profited greatly by the experience of the nations which had already been engaged for nearly three years in the exacting business, their every resource and every executive proficiency taxed to the utmost. We were the pupils. But we learned quickly and acted with a promptness and a readiness of co-operation that justify our great pride that we were able to serve the world with unparalleled energy and quick accomplishment.

But it is not the physical scale and executive efficiency of preparation, supply, equipment and despatch that I would dwell upon, but the mettle and quality of the officers and men we sent over and of the sailors who kept the seas and the spirit of the nation that stood behind them. No soldiers or sailors, ever proved themselves more quickly ready for the test of battle or acquitted themselves with more splendid courage and achievement when put to the test. Those of us who played some part in directing the great processes by which the war was pushed irresistibly forward to the final triumph may now get all that and delight our thoughts with the story of what our men did. Their officers understood the grim and exacting task they had undertaken, and performed with efficiency and unhesitating courage that touch the story of convoy and battle with imperishable distinction at every turn, whether the enterprises were great or small—from their chiefs, Pershing and Sims, down to the youngest lieutenant. And their men were worthy of them—such men as hardly need to be commanded, and go to their terrible adventure blithely and with the quick intelligence of those who know just what it is they would accomplish.

I am proud to be the fellow countryman of men of such stuff and valour. Those of us who stayed at home did our duty; the war could not have been won or the brilliant men who fought it given their opportunity to win it otherwise; but for many a long day we shall think ourselves "accursed we were not there and hold our manhood cheap while any speaks that fought" with those at St. Mihiel or Thiepval. The memory of those days of triumph battle will go with these fortunate men to their graves; and each will have his favorite memory. "Old men forget yet all shall be forgot but he'll remember with ages what fate did that day." What we all thank God for with deepest gratitude is that our men went in force to the line of battle just at the critical moment, the whole fate of the world seemed to hang in the balance and their ranks of freedom in time to turn the whole tide and sweep of the fateful struggle—turn it at once for all so that thenceforth it will back, back, back for their enemies, always back, never again forward.

After that it was only a scant four months before the commanders of the central empires knew themselves beaten and now their very empire are in liquidation. Throughout it all how fine the spirit of the nation was; what unity of purpose ran through all its display of strength, its untiring accomplishments. I have said that those who stayed at home to do the work of organization and supply are men who wish that we had been in whom we sustained by our labor, we can never be ashamed.

It has been an inspiring thing to be in the midst of fine men who had aside from every private interest their own and devote to the work of their trained capacity to the tasks that supplied the shows of the whole great undertaking. The patriotism, the unselfishness, the thorough going devotion and distinguished capacity that marked their toilsome labors, day after day, month after month, have made them fit mates and comrades of the men in the trenches and on the sea. And not the men here in Washington only. They have but directed the vast achievement. Throughout innumerable factories, upon innumerable farms, in the depths of coal mines and iron mines and copper mines, wherever the stuffs of industry were to be obtained and prepared, in the ship yards, on the railways, at the docks, on the sea, in every labor that was needed to sustain the battle lines, they have vied with each other to do their part and do it well. They can look any man at arms in the face and say, we also strove to win and gave the best that was in us to make our fleets and armies sure of their triumph.

And what shall we say of the women—of their instant intelligence, quickening every task that they touched, their capacity for organization and co-operation which gave their action discipline and enhanced the effectiveness of everything they attempted. Their attitude at tasks to which they had never before set their hands; their utter self-sacrifice alike in what they did and in what they gave. Their contribution to the great results is beyond appraisal. They have added a new luster to the annals of American womanhood.

The least tribute we can pay them is to make them the equals of men in political rights as they have proved themselves their equals in every field of practical work they have entered, whether for themselves or for their country. These great days of completed achievement would be sadly marred were we to omit that act of justice. Besides the immense practical services they have rendered the women of the country have been the moving spirits in the systematic economies by which our people have voluntarily assisted to supply the suffering peoples of the world and the armies upon every front with food and everything else that we had that might serve the common cause. The details of such a story can never be fully written but we carry them at our hearts and thank God that we can say that we are the kinsmen of such.

And now we are sure of the triumphs for which every sacrifice was made. It has come, come in its completeness, and with the pride and inspiration of their days of achievement quick within us we turn to the task of peace again—a peace secure against the violence of irresponsible monarchs and ambitious military coteries and made ready for a new order for new foundations of justice and fair dealings.

"We are about to give order and organization to this peace not only for ourselves but for the other peoples of the world as well, so far as they will suffer us to serve them. It is international justice that we seek, not domestic safety, merely. Our thoughts have dwelt of late upon Europe, upon Asia, upon the near and far East, very little on the acts of peace and accommodation that wait to be performed at our own doors. While we are adjusting our relations with the rest of the world is it not of capital importance that we should clear away all grounds of misunderstanding with our immediate neighbors and give proof of the friendship we really feel? I hope that the members of the senate will permit me to speak once more of the unratified treaty of friendship and adjustment with the republic of Colombia. I very earnestly urge them to an early and favorable action upon that vital matter. I believe that they will feel with me, that the stage of affairs is now set for such action as will be not only just but generous and in the spirit of the new age upon which we have so happily entered.

"So far as our domestic affairs are concerned the problem of our return to peace is a problem of economic and industrial readjustment. That problem is less serious for us than it may turn out to be for the nations which have suffered the disarrangements and the losses of war longer than we. Our people, moreover, do not want to be peached and led. They know their own

"Never before have there been agencies in existence in this country which knew so much of the field of supply, of labor and of industry as the war industries board, the war trade board, the labor department, the food administration and the food and fuel administration. I believe that they have known since their labors became thoroughly systematized. And they have not been isolated agencies; they have been directed by men which represented the permanent departments of the government. No one has been the centers of unified and co-ordinated action. It has been the policy of the executive, therefore, since the armistice was assured to put the knowledge of these bodies at the disposal of the business men of the country and to offer their intelligence and co-operative every point and in every matter where it was desired. It is surprising how fast the process of return to a peace footing has moved in the three weeks since the fighting stopped. It promises to outrun any inquiry that may be instituted and any attack that may be offered. It will not be easy to direct it any better than it will direct itself. The American business man is of quick initiative.

"The ordinary and normal process of private initiative will not, however, provide immediate employment for all of the men of our returning armies. Those who are of trained capacity, those who are skilled working men, those who have acquired familiarity with established businesses, those who are ready and willing to go to the farms, all those whose aptitudes are known or will be sought out by employers will find no difficulty. It is safe to say, in finding place and employment.

But there will be others who will be at a loss where to gain a livelihood unless pains are taken to guide them and put them in the way of work. There will be a large floating residuum of labor which should not be left wholly to shift for itself. It seems to me important therefore that the development of public works of every sort should be promptly resumed in order that opportunities should be created for unskilled labor in particular, and that plans should be made for such development of our unused lands and our natural resources as we have hitherto lacked stimulation to undertake.

I particularly direct your attention to the very practical plans which the secretary of the interior has developed in his annual report and before your committees for the reclamation of arid swamp and cut-over lands which might, if the states were willing and able to co-operate, redeem some three hundred and million acres of land for cultivation. There are also fifteen or twenty million acres of land in the west.

business, are quick and resourceful at every readjustment, definite in purposes and self-reliant in action. Any leading strings we might seek to put them in would speedily become hopelessly tangled because they would pay no attention to them and go their own way. All that we can do as their legislative and executive servants is to mediate the process of change here, there and elsewhere as we may have heard much counsel as to the plans that should be formed and personally conducted to a happy consummation but from no quarters have I seen any general scheme of reconstruction emerge which I thought likely were force our spirit business men and self-reliant laborers to accept with due pliancy and obedience.

While the war lasted we set up many agencies by which to direct the industries of the country in the services it was necessary for them to render by which to make sure of an abundant supply of the materials needed, by which to check undertakings that would for the most part be dispensed with and others those that were most serviceable in war, by which to gain for the purchasing departments of the government a certain control over the prices of essential articles and materials, by which to insure the most efficient use of the money of the country. In harness to direct the common effort and make of us one team in the accomplishment of a great task. But the moment we knew the armistice to have been signed we took the harness off raw materials upon which the government had kept a hand, they were there should not be enough for the industries that supplied the armies have been released and put into the general market again. Great industrial plants whose whole output and machinery had been taken over for the needs of the government have been set free to return to the use to which they were put before the war. It has not been possible to remove so readily the control of foodstuffs and of shipping because the world has still to be fed from our granaries and the ships are still needed to carry supplies to our men overseas and to bring the men back as fast as the disturbed conditions on the other side of the water permits, but even there restraints are being relaxed as much as possible and more and more as the war goes by.

"Never before have there been agencies in existence in this country which knew so much of the field of supply, of labor and of industry as the war industries board, the war trade board, the labor department, the food administration and the food and fuel administration. I believe that they have known since their labors became thoroughly systematized. Is Your Blood Starving For Want of Iron?

Modern Methods of Cooking and Living Have Made An Alarming Increase in Iron Deficiency in Blood of American Men and Women

Why Nuxated Iron So Quickly Builds Up Weak, Nervous, Run-Down Folks—Over 3,000,000 People Annually Taking It In This Country Alone To Increase Their Strength, Power, Energy and Endurance.

"Is your blood starving for want of iron? If you were to go without eating until you became weak, thin and emaciated, you could not do a more serious harm to yourself than when you let your blood literally starve for want of iron—iron that gives it strength and power to change food into living tissue," says Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept., New York, and the Westchester County Hospital).

"Modern methods of cooking and the rapid pace at which people of this country live has made such an alarming increase in iron deficiency in the blood of American men and women that I have often marveled at the large number of people who lack iron in the blood, and who never suspect the cause of their weak, nervous, run-down state. Lack of iron in the blood not only makes a man a physical and mental wrecking, nervous, irritable, easily fatigued, but it utterly robs him of that virile force, that stamina and strength of will which are so necessary to success and power in every walk of life. It may also transform a beautiful, sweet-tempered woman into one who is cross, nervous and irritable.

"I have frequently emphasized to the great majority of physicians making blood examinations of their weak, anemic, run-down patients. Thousands of persons go on year after year, suffering from physical weakness and a highly nervous condition due to lack of sufficient iron in their red blood corpuscles without ever realizing the real and true cause of their trouble. Without iron in your blood you get, merely passives through the body, something like corn through an old mill with rollers so wide apart that the mill can't grind.

"For want of iron you may be an old man at thirty, dull of intellect, poor in memory, nervous, irritable and all 'run-down,' while at 50 or 60 with plenty of iron in your blood you may still be young in feeling, full of life, your whole being brimming over with vim and energy.

"As proof of this take the case of Former United States Senator and Vice-Presidential nominee Charles A. Towne, who at past 58 is still a veritable mountain of tireless energy. Senator Towne says: 'I have found Nuxated Iron of the greatest benefit as a tonic and regulative. Henceforth I shall not be without it. I am in a position to testify for the benefit of others to the remarkable and immediate helpfulness of this remedy, and I unhesitatingly recommend Nuxated Iron to those who feel the need of renewed energy and the regularity of bodily functions.

"But in my opinion you can't make strong, keen, forceful men and healthy, ruddy-cheeked women by feeding them on metallic iron. The old forms of metallic iron must go through a digestive process to transform them into organic iron—Nuxated Iron—before they are ready to be taken up and assimilated by the human system. Notwithstanding all that has been said and written on this subject by well-known physicians, thousands of people still insist in dosing themselves with metallic iron simply, I suppose, because it costs a few cents less. I strongly advise readers in all cases to get a physician's prescription for organic iron—Nuxated Iron—or if you don't want to go to this trouble, then purchase only Nuxated Iron in its original packages and see that this particular name weak, nervous, irritable, despondent and melancholy. Give such a woman a short course of Nuxated Iron and she often quickly becomes an entirely different individual—strong, healthy and ruddy-cheeked. I have used Nuxated Iron widely in my own practice in most severe, aggravated conditions with unfailing results. I have induced many other physicians to give it a trial, all of whom have given me most surprising reports in regard to its great power as a health and strength builder."

Manufacturers' Note: Nuxated Iron which is used by Dr. Sullivan and others with such surprising results, and which is prescribed and recommended above by physicians is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed in this city by Wm. A. Erman, Evans' Cut Rate Store, the Mykranitz Pharmacy and all other druggists.

PRESIDENT DEALS WITH RAILROADS

In Address to Congress He Urges Careful Consideration of Question

Defends Proposed Trip to Allied Peace Conference in France

Washington, Dec. 3.—President Wilson, in his address to congress yesterday, dealt with questions of reconstruction and administration of the railroads under government control. The address in full follows:

Gentlemen of the Congress—The year that has elapsed since I last stood before you to fulfill my constitutional duty to present to the congress from time to time, information on the state of the union, has been so crowded with great events, great stresses and great results, that I cannot hope to give you an adequate picture of its transactions or of the far-reaching changes which have been wrought in the life of our nation and of the world. You have yourselves witnessed these things as I have. It is too soon to assess them; and we who stand in the midst of them and are part of them are less qualified than men of another generation will be to say what they mean or even what they have been. But some great outstanding facts are unmistakable and constitute in a sense part of the public business in which it is our duty to deal. To state them is to set the stage for the legislative and executive action which must grow out of them and which we have to shape and determine.

A year ago we had sent 145,918 men overseas. Since then we have sent 1,950,513, an average of 162,542 each month, the number in fact, rising in May last to 245,951, in June to 278,760, in July to 307,182, and continuing to reach similar figures in August and September, in August 289,570, and in September 257,438.

No such movement of troops ever took place before across 3000 miles of sea, followed by adequate equipment and supplies, and carried safely through extraordinary dangers of attack—dangers which were alike strange and infinitely difficult to guard against. In all this movement 738 men were lost by enemy attacks—630 of whom were upon a single English transport which was sunk near the Orkney Islands.

I need not tell you what lay back of this great movement of men and material. It is not invidious to say that back of it lay a supporting organization of the industries of the country and of all its productive activities more complete, more thorough in method and effective in results, more spirited and unanimous in purpose and effort than any other great belligerent had ever been able to exert. We profited greatly by the experience of the nations which had already been engaged for nearly three years in the exacting business, their every resource and every executive proficiency taxed to the utmost. We were the pupils. But we learned quickly and acted with a promptness and a readiness of co-operation that justify our great pride that we were able to serve the world with unparalleled energy and quick accomplishment.

But it is not the physical scale and executive efficiency of preparation, supply, equipment and despatch that I would dwell upon, but the mettle and quality of the officers and men we sent over and of the sailors who kept the seas and the spirit of the nation that stood behind them. No soldiers or sailors, ever proved themselves more quickly ready for the test of battle or acquitted themselves with more splendid courage and achievement when put to the test.

Those of us who played some part in directing the great processes by which the war was pushed irresistibly forward to the final triumph may now get all that and delight our thoughts with the story of what our men did. The officers understood the grim and exacting task they had undertaken and performed with efficiency and unhesitating courage that touch the story of convoy and battle with imperishable distinction at every turn, whether the enterprises were great or small—from the chiefs, Pershing and Sims, down to the youngest lieutenant. And their men were worthy of them—such men as hardly need to be commanded, and go to their terrible adventure blithely and with the quick intelligence of those who know just what it is they would accomplish.

I am proud to be the fellow countryman of men of such stuff and valour. Those of us who stayed at home did our duty; the war could not have been won or the gallant men who fought it given their opportunity to win, it otherwise. But for many a long day we shall think ourselves "accursed we were not there and hold our manhood cheap while any speaks that fought" with these at St. Mihiel or Thier. The memory of those days of triumph battle will go with these fortunate men to their graves; and each will have his favorite memory. "Old men forget yet all shall be forgot but he'll remember with ages what fate did that day."

What we all thank God for with deepest gratitude is that our men went in face to the line of battle just at the critical moment, the whole fate of the world seemed to hang in the balance and threw their flesh strength into the ranks of freedom in time to turn the whole tide and sweep of the fateful struggle—turn it at once for all so that thenceforth it will back, back, back for their enemies, always back, never again forward.

After that it was only a scant four months before the commanders of the central empires knew themselves beaten and now their very empire are in liquidation. And throughout it all how fine the spirit of the nation was; what unity of purpose, what untiring zeal. What elevation of purpose ran through all its splendid display of strength, its untiring accomplishments. I have said that those of us who stayed at home to do the work of organization and supply will always wish that we had been with the men whom we sustained by our labor, but we can never be ashamed.

It has been an inspiring thing to be here in the midst of the men who had earned aside from every private interest of their own and devote to the whole of their trained capacity to the tasks that supplied the sinews of the whole great undertaking. The patriotism, the unselfishness, the thoroughgoing devotion and distinguished capacity that marked their tollsoms labors, day after day, month after month, have made them fit mates and comrades of the men in the trenches and on the sea. And not the men here in Washington only. They have but directed the vast achievement. Throughout innumerable factories, upon innumerable farms, in the depths of coal mines and iron mines and copper mines, wherever the stuffs of industry were to be obtained and prepared, in the ship yards, on the railways, at the docks, on the sea, in every labor that was needed to sustain the battle lines, men have vied with each other to do their part and do it well. They can look any man at arms in the face and say, we also strove to win and gave the best that was in us to make our fleets and armies sure of their triumph.

And what shall we say of the women—of their instant intelligence, quickening every task that they touched, their capacity for organization and co-operation which gave their action discipline and enhanced the effectiveness of everything they attempted. Their aptitude at tasks to which they had never before set their hands; their utter self-sacrifice alike in what they did and in what they gave. Their contribution to the great results is beyond appraisal. They have added a new lustrous to the annals of American womanhood.

The least tribute we can pay them is to make them the equals of men in political rights as they have proved themselves their equals in every field of practical work they have entered, whether for themselves or for their country. These great days of completed achievement would be sadly marred were we to omit that act of justice. Besides the immense practical services they have rendered the women of the country have been the moving spirits in the systematic economies by which our people have voluntarily assisted to supply the suffering peoples of the world and the armies upon every front with food nad everything else that we had that might serve the common cause. The details of such a story can never be fully written but we carry them at our hearts and thank God that we can say that we are the kinsmen of such.

And now we are sure of the triumphs for which every sacrifice was made. It has come, come in its completeness, and with the pride and inspiration of these days of achievement quick within us we turn to the task of peace again—a peace secure against the violence of irresponsible monarchs and ambitious military coteries and made ready for a new order, for new foundations of justice and fair dealings.

"We are about to give order and organization to this peace not only for ourselves but for the other peoples of the world as well, so far as they will suffer us to serve them. It is international justice that we seek, not domestic safety, merely. Our thoughts have dwelt of late upon Europe, upon Asia, upon the near and Far East, very little on the acts of peace and accommodation that wait to be performed at our own doors. While we are adjusting our relations with the rest of the world is it not of capital importance that we should clear away all grounds of misunderstanding with our immediate neighbors and give proof of the friendship we really feel? I hope that the members of the senate will permit me to speak once more of the unruffled treaty of friendship and adjustment with the republic of Colombia. I very earnestly urge them an early and favorable action upon that vital matter. I believe that they will feel with me, that the stage of affairs is now set for such action as will be not only just but generous and in the spirit of the new age upon which we have so happily entered."

"So far as our domestic affairs are concerned the problem of our return to peace is a problem of economic and industrial readjustment. That problem is less serious for us than it may turn out to be for the nations which have suffered the disarrangements and the losses of war longer than we. Our people, moreover, do not want to be coached and led. They know their own

"Never before have there been agencies in existence in this country which knew so much of the field of supply, of labor and of industry as the war industries board, the war trade board, the labor department, the food administration and the food administration have known since their labors began, thoroughly systematized. And they have not been isolated agencies; they have been directed by men which represented the permanent departments of the government and so have been the centers of united and co-operative action. It has been the policy of the executive, therefore, since the armistice was assured to put the knowledge of these bodies at the disposal of the business men of the country and to offer their intelligent mediation at every point and in every matter where it was desired. It is surprising how fast the process of return to peace footing has moved in the three weeks since the fighting stopped. It promises to outrun any inquiry that may be instituted and any aid that may be offered. It will not be easy to direct it any better than it will direct itself. The American business man is of quick initiative.

"The ordinary and normal process of private initiative will not, however, provide immediate employment for all of the men of our returning armies. Those who are of training and capacity, those who are skilled working men, those who have acquired familiarity with established businesses, those who are ready and willing to go to the farms, all those whose aptitudes who are however or will be sought out by employers will find no difficulty, it is safe to say, in finding place and employment.

But there will be others who will be at a loss where to gain a livelihood unless plans are taken to guide them and in the way of work. There will be a large floating residuum of labor which should not be left wholly to shift for itself. It seems to me important therefore that the development of public works of every sort should be promptly resumed in order that opportunities should be created for unskilled labor in particular and that plans should be made for such development of our unused lands and our natural resources as we have hitherto lacked stimulation to undertake.

I particularly direct your attention to the very project which the secretary of the interior has developed in his annual report and before your committees for the reclamation of arid swamp and cut over lands which might, if the states were willing and able to co-operate, redeem some three hundred million acres of land for cultivation. There are said to be fifteen or twenty million acres of land in the west, business, are quick and resourceful at every readjustment, definite in purposes and self-reliant in action. Any leading strings we might seek to put them in would speedily become hopelessly tangled because they would pay no attention to them and go their own way. All that we can do as their legislative and executive servants is to mediate the process of change here, there and elsewhere, as we may. I have heard much counsel as to the plans that should be formed and personally conducted to a happy consummation but from no quarters have I seen any general scheme of reconstruction emerge which I thought it likely were force of our spirit business men and self-reliant laborers to accept with due pliancy and obedience.

While the war lasted we set up many agencies by which to direct the industries of the country in the services it was necessary for them to render by which to make sure of an abundant supply of the materials needed, by which to check undertakings that would for the time be dispensed with and stimulate those that were most serviceable in war, by which to gain for the purchases of the government the best value for the money, by which to exert certain control over the prices of essential articles and materials, by which to restrain trade with alien enemies, make the most of the available shipping and systematize financial transactions, both public and private, so that there will be no unnecessary conflict or confusion, by which, in short, to put every material energy of the country in harness to draw the common mind and make of us one team in the accomplishment of a great task. But the moment we knew the armistice to have been signed we took necessary steps to have ready upon which the government had kept its hand for fear there should not be enough for the industries that supplied the armies have been released and put into the general market again. Great industrial plants whose whole output had been taken over for the uses of the government have been set free to return to the uses to which they were put before the war. It has not been possible to remove so readily the control of foodstuffs and of shipping because the world has still to be fed from our granaries and the ships are still needed to send supplies to our men overseas and to bring the men back as fast as the disturbed conditions on the other side of the water permits, but even these restraints are being relaxed as much as possible and more and more as the weeks go by.

"As proof of this take the case of Former United States Senator and Vice-Presidential nominee Charles A. Towne, who at past 58 is still a veritable mountain of tireless energy. Senator Towne, I have found Nuxated Iron of the greatest benefit as a tonic and regulative. Henceforth I shall not be without it. I am in a position to testify for the benefit of others to the remarkable and immediate helpfulness of this remedy. And I unhesitatingly recommend Nuxated Iron to those who feel the need of renewed energy and the regularity of bodily functions.

"But in my opinion you can't make strong, keen, forceful men and healthy rosy-cheeked women by feeding them on metallic iron. The old forms of metallic iron must go through a digestive process to transform them into organic iron—Nuxated Iron—before they are ready to be taken up and assimilated by the human system. Notwithstanding all that has been said and written on this subject by well-known physicians, thousands of people still insist in dosing themselves with metallic iron simply. I suppose, because it costs a few cents less. I strongly advise readers in all cases to get a physician's prescription for organic iron—Nuxated Iron—don't want to do this trouble, then purchase only Nuxated Iron in its original packages and see that this particular name

Is Your Blood Starving For Want of Iron?

Modern Methods of Cooking and Living Have Made An Alarming Increase in Iron Deficiency in Blood of American Men and Women

Why Nuxated Iron So Quickly Builds Up Weak, Nervous, Run-Down Folks—Over 3,000,000 People Annually Taking It In This Country Alone To Increase Their Strength, Power, Energy and Endurance.

"Is your blood starving for want of iron? If you were to go without eating until you became weak, thin and emaciated, you could not do a more serious harm to yourself than when you let your blood literally starve for want of iron—iron that gives it strength and power to change food into living tissue," says Dr. James Francis Sullivan, former physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital.

"Modern methods of cooking and the rapid pace at which people of this country live has made such an alarming increase in iron deficiency in the blood of American men and women that I have often marveled at the large number of people who lack iron in the blood, and who never suspect the cause of their weak, nervous, run-down state. Lack of iron in the blood not only makes a man a physical and mental weakling, nervous, irritable, easily fatigued, but it utterly robs him of that virile force, that stamina and strength of will which are so necessary to success and power in every walk of life. It may also transform a beautiful, sweet-tempered woman into one who is cross, nervous and irritable."

"I have strongly emphasized the great necessity of physicians making blood examinations of their weak, anemic, run-down patients. Thousands of persons go on year after year, suffering from physical weakness and a highly nervous condition due to lack of sufficient iron in their red blood corpuscles without ever realizing the real and true cause of their trouble. Without iron in your blood your food merely passes through the body, something like corn through an old mill with rollers so wide apart that the mill can't grind.

"For want of iron you may be an old man at thirty, dull of intellect, poor in memory, nervous, irritable and all 'run-down,' while at 50 or 60 with plenty of iron in your blood you may still be young in feeling, full of life, your whole being brimming over with vim and energy."

"As proof of this take the case of Former United States Senator and Vice-Presidential nominee Charles A. Towne, who at past 58 is still a veritable mountain of tireless energy. at present arid, for whose reclamation water is available, if properly conserved. There are about two hundred and thirty million acres from which the forest have been cut but which have never been cleared for the plow and which lie waste and desolate. These lie scattered all over the union. And there are nearly eighty million acres of land that lie under swamps or subject to periodic overflow or too wet for anything but grazing, which it is perfectly feasible to drain and protect and be redeemed. The congress can at once direct thousands of returning soldiers to the reclamation of the arid lands which it has already undertaken if it will but enlarge the powers and the appropriations which it has entrusted to the department of the interior. It is possible in dealing with outwashed land to effect a great rural and agricultural department which will afford the best sort of opportunity to men who want to help themselves; and the secretary of the interior has thought the possible methods out in a way which is worthy of your most friendly attention.

I have spoken of the control which might be exercised for a long while by the government of the shipping because of the priority of service to which our forces overseas are entitled and which should also be accorded the shipments which are to save recently liberated peoples from starvation and many devastated regions from economic ruin. May I not say a special word about the needs of Belgium and northern France? No sums of money paid by way of indemnity will serve of themselves to save them from hopeless disadvantage for years to come. Something more must be done than merely find the money. If they had money and raw materials in abundance tomorrow they could not resume their place in the world tomorrow.

The very important place they held before the flame of war swept across them. Many of their factories are razed to the ground. Much of their machinery is destroyed or has been taken away. Their people are scattered and many of their best workmen are dead. Their markets will be taken by others, if they are not in some special way assisted to rebuild their factories and replace their lost instruments of manufacture. They should not be left to the vicissitudes of the sharp competition for materials and for usual facilities which is now to set in. I hope, therefore, that the congress will not be ungrateful if it should become necessary to grant to Belgium and northern France the war trade board the right to establish priorities of export and supply for the benefit of these people whom we have been so happy to assist in saving from the German terror and who we must not now thoughtlessly leave to shift for themselves in a pitiless competitive market.

For the steady and facilitation of our own domestic business readjustments nothing is more important than the immediate determination of the taxes that are to be levied for 1918, 1919 and 1920. As much of the burden of taxation must be lifted from business as sound methods of financing the government will permit and those who conduct the great essential industries of the country must be told as exactly as possible what obligations to the government they will be expected to meet in the years immediately ahead of them.

It will be serious of consequence to the country to delay removing all uncertainties in this matter a single day longer than the right process of debate justify. It is idle to make successful and confident business construction before those uncertainties are resolved. If the war had continued it would have been necessary to raise at least eight billion dollars by taxation payable in the year 1919; but the war has ended and I agree with the secretary of the treasury that it will be safe to reduce the amount to six billion. An immediate rapidly cancelled, and liquidated, but their immediate liquidation will make heavy drains on the treasury for the months just ahead of us. The maintenance of our forces on the other side of the sea is still necessary. A considerable number of that force must remain in Europe during the period of occupation and those which are brought home will be transported and demobilized at heavy expense for months to come.

The interest on our war debt must be paid and provision made for the retirement of the obligations of the government which represent it. These demands will of course fall much below that much a continuation of military operations would have entailed and six billions should suffice to supply a sound foundation for the financial operations of the year.

I entirely concur with the secretary of the treasury in recommending that the two billions needed in addition to the four billions provided by existing law be obtained from profits which have accrued and shall accrue from war contracts and distinctively war business, but that these taxes be confined to the war profits accruing in 1918, or in 1919 from business originating in war contracts. I urge your acceptance of his recommendation that provision be made now, not subsequently, that the taxes to be paid in 1920 should be reduced from six to four billions. Any arrangement less definite than these would add elements of doubt and confusion to the critical period of industrial adjustment through which the country must now immediately pass, and which no true friend of the nation's essential business interests can afford to be responsible for creating or prolonging. Clearly determined conditions, clearly and simply chartered, are indispensable to the economic revival and rapid industrial development which may confidently be expected if we act now and sweep all interrogation points away.

It was necessary that the administration of the railways should be taken over by the government so long as the war lasted. It would have been impossible otherwise to establish and carry through under a single direction the necessary priorities of shipment. It would have been impossible otherwise to combine maximum production of the factories and mines and farms with the maximum possible car supply to take the products to the ports and markets; impossible to route troop shipments and freight shipments without regard to the advantage or disadvantage of the roads employed; impossible to subordinate, when necessary, all questions of convenience to the public necessity, impossible to give the necessary financial support to the roads from the public treasury. But all these necessities have now been served, and the question is, what is best for the railways and for the public in the future.

Exceptional circumstances and exceptional methods of administration were not needed to convince us that the railways were not equal to the immense tasks of transportation imposed upon them by the rapid and continuous development of the industries of the country. We knew that already. And we knew that they were unequal to it partly because their full cooperation was rendered impossible by law and their competition made obligatory, so that it has been impossible to assign to them severally the traffic which could best be carried by their respective lines in the interest of expedition and national economy.

We may hope, I believe, for the formal conclusion of the war by treaty by the time spring has come. The twenty months to which the present control of the railways is limited after formal proclamation of peace shall have been made will run at the furthest. I take it for granted only to the January of 1921. The full equipment of the railways which the federal administration had planned could not be completed within any such period. The present law does not permit the use of the revenues of the several roads for the execution of such plans except by formal contract with their directors, some of whom will consent while some will not, and therefore does not afford sufficient authority to undertake improvements upon the scale upon which it would be necessary to undertake them. Every approach to this difficult subject matter of decision brings us face to face, therefore, with this unanswered question: "What is it right that we should do with the railways, in the interest of the public and in fairness to their owners?"

I take it for granted that the congress will carry out the naval programme which was undertaken before we entered the war. The secretary of the navy has submitted to your committees for authorization that part of the program which covers the building plans of the next three years. These plans have been prepared along the lines and in accordance with the policy which the congress established, not under the exceptional conditions of war but with the intention of adhering to a definite method of development for the navy. It would clearly be unwise for us to attempt to adjust our programs to a future world policy as yet undetermined.

The question which causes me the greatest concern is the question of the policy to be adopted towards the railroads. I frankly turn to you for counsel upon it. I have no confident judgment of my own. I do not see how any thoughtful man can have who knows anything of the complexity of the problem. It is a problem which must be studied, studied immediately and studied without bias or prejudice. Nothing can be gained by becoming partisans of any particular plan of settlement.

Let me say at once that I have no answer ready. The only thing that is perfectly clear to me is that it is not fair either to the public or to the owners of the railroads to leave the question unanswered and that it will presently become my duty to relinquish control of the roads even before the expiration of the statutory period, unless there should appear some clear prospect in the meantime of a legislative solution. Their release would at least produce one element of a solution, namely "certainty and a quick stimulation and private initiative." I believe that it will be serviceable for me to set forth as explicitly as possible the alternative causes that lie open to our choice. We can simply release the roads and go back to the old conditions of private management, unrestricted competition, and multiform regulation by both state and federal authorities, or we can go to the opposite extreme and establish government control, accompanied, if necessary, by total government ownership; or we can adopt an intermediate course of modified private control, under a more unified and affirmative public regulation and under such alterations of the law as will permit wasteful competition to be avoided and a considerable degree of unification of administration to be effected, as, for example, by regional corporations under which the railways of definable areas would be in effect combined in single systems.

The one conclusion that I am ready to state with confidence is that it would be a disaster alike to the country and to the owners of the railroads to return to the old conditions unmodified.

These are conditions of restraint with out development. There is nothing affirmative or helpful about them. What the country chiefly needs is that all the means of transportation would be developed, its railways, its waterways, its highways, and its country side roads. Some new element of policy, therefore, is absolutely necessary for the service of the public, necessary for the release of credit to those who are administering the railways, necessary for the preservation of their security holders. The old policy may be changed much or little, but surely it cannot wisely be left as it was. I hope that the congress will have a complete and impartial study of the whole problem instituted at once and prosecuted as rapidly as possible. I stand ready and anxious to release the roads from the present control and I must do so at a very early date if by waiting until the statutory limit of time is reached I shall be merely prolonging the period of doubt and uncertainty which is hurtful to every common interest.

I welcome this occasion to announce to the congress my purpose to join in Paris the representatives of the government with which we have been associated in the war against the central empires for the purpose of discussing with them the main feature of the treaty of peace. I realize the great conveniences that will attend my leaving the country, particularly at this time but the conclusions that it was my paramount duty to go has been forced upon me by considerations which I hope will seem as conclusive to you as they have seemed to me.

The allied governments have accepted the bases of peace which I outlined to the congress on the eighth of January last, as the central empires also have, and very reasonably desire my personal counsel in their interpretation and application and it is highly desirable that I should give it in order that the sincere desire of our government to contribute without selfish purpose of any kind to settlements that will be of common benefit to all the nations concerned may be made fully manifest. The peace settlements which are now to be agreed upon are of transcendent importance both to us and to the rest of the world, and I know of no business of interests which should take precedence of them. The gallant men of our armed forces on land and sea have been conscious of the ideals which they have known to be the ideals of their country. I have sought to express those ideals; they have accepted my statements of them as the substance of their own thought and purpose, as the associated governments have accepted them; I owe it to them to see to it, so far as in me lies, that no false or mistaken interpretation is put upon them, and no possible effort omitted to realize them. It is now my only duty to play my full part in making good what they offered in making good what they offered. I think of no end to a service which transcends this. I shall be in close touch with you and with affairs on this side of the water, and you will know all that I do at my request, the French and English governments have absolutely removed the censorship of cable news which within a fortnight they had maintained and there is now no censorship whatever exercised at this end except upon attempted trade communications with enemy countries. It has been necessary to keep an open wire constantly available between Paris and the department of state, and another between France and the department of war. In order that this might be done with the least possible interference with the other uses of the cables, I have temporarily taken over the control of both cables in order that they may be used as a single system. I did so at the advice of the most experienced cable officials, and I hope that the results will justify my hope that the news of the next few months may pass with the utmost freedom and with the least possible delay from each side of the sea to the other.

May I not hope, gentlemen of the congress, that in the delicate tasks I shall have to perform on the other side of the sea, in my efforts truly and faithfully to interpret the principles and purposes of the country we love, I may have the encouragement and the added strength of your united support? I realize the magnitude and difficulty of the duty I am undertaking. I am poignantly aware of its grave responsibilities. I am the servant of the nation. I can have no private thought or purpose of my own in performing such an errand. I go to give the best that is in me to the common settlements which I must now assist in arriving at in conference with the other working heads of the associated governments. I shall count upon your friendly countenance and encouragement. I shall not be inaccessible. The cables and the wireless will render me available for any counsel or service you may desire of me and I shall be happy in the thought that I am constantly in touch with the weighty matters of domestic policy with which we shall have to deal. I shall make my absence as brief as possible and shall hope to return with the happy assurance that it has been possible to translate into action the great ideals for which America has striven.

AMERICAN WOMEN LEAD THE WORLD

They Have Beauty, Health and Brains

"A really beautiful woman is always a healthy woman," remarked one of our noted beauty specialists. "For true beauty comes from the blood and strong, steady nerves. Rich, red blood, the fountain of life, youth shows itself in a clear, rosy skin, solid flesh, a keen, bright mind. Red blooded women, with strong nervous vitality, are sought after by men; they are the hope and leaders of the world. American women lead the world in health, beauty and intelligence, and their number is increasing. They have learned the value of Iron and Phosphates in keeping them in perfect condition. The number of weak, pale, fagged out, run down and nervous women is bound to decrease rapidly, once the power of Phosphated Iron becomes more generally known," said a leading doctor. "There is not a reason in the world why women should not be strong, happy and a joy to look upon when the remedy is at hand. Phosphated Iron has accomplished what no other medicine has. It has restored health, vitality, nerves and happiness to whole families. It's the healthy, red, iron blooded, strong, phosphated women and women that enjoy life and live in every work." Think it over! Ask your doctor and their advice, getting the genuine Phosphated Iron we have put in capsules only, so do not allow dealers to substitute pills or tablets. Insist on capsules. NEW Y DIRECTOR IS STARTING GYM CLASS

The new physical director of the Newark Y. M. C. A., Emmet E. Olson, began his work the 16th of the month. Olson is a native of Eau Claire, Wis., and was a member of the Eau Claire Y. M. C. A. There he was prominent in high school athletics, playing on the football team four years; his record on the track team placed him in second place for pole vault. For four years he was a leader in the high school gymnasium. Olson is well qualified to instruct gymnasium classes and coach athletic teams.

 The Lutheran church claims his allegiance and it is expected he will place his letter in Rev. Mr. Schmidt's church. The work he has done so far has been highly satisfactory and it is hoped that before the winter gets old he will have the confidence of the membership men and boys. Much work is being done in the effort to get the gymnasium work under way as the influenza ban broke in just as the work was getting nicely started and upset plans.
 Men or boys who are waiting to take up the classes when cold weather sets in are losing much valuable training which will not return with each month. Classes are carefully planned in advance and follow a schedule in which the members can follow. No school or college work, no sessions should be lost.

AN INTERNAL TREATMENT FOR PILES (HEMORRHOIDS)

Gives absolute relief from all pain and suffering. Has never failed. Guaranteed.

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that their case was hopeless and that there was no remedy for their case.

Go to your druggist and get an original bottle of Miro Pile Remedy, the discovery of a clever Ohio chemist, that taken internally, passes unchanged through the stomach and intestines, and thus reaches the source of the trouble where by its soothing, healing, antiseptic action, it first allays and then by direct contact with the ulcers and piles causes them to heal and disappear forever.

It is positively marvelous how speedily a Venereal Blemish often comes in two or three days, even in cases that have resisted all previously known treatments really wonderful results have been accomplished. It is one of the wonderful discoveries of recent years and anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded.

All pharmacists dispense Miro or can get it for you on short notice.

IMPORTANT: What is known as itching piles are not piles in the true sense of the word, although this condition may accompany a true case of piles. For this condition Miro Pile Ointment has been prepared as in such cases it is not necessary to take the internal prescription. T. J. Evans' Pharmacy—Adv.

FARM TO TABLE SHIPPED IS NAMED BY PRESIDENT

GERMANY FACES BIG TAXATION PROBLEMS

London, Dec. 3.—Dr. Ellis T. Powell, editor of the Financial News, writing in the Daily Express on the subject of Germany's ability to pay for the damage wrought by her army and navy, said in part: "Precision or anything approaching precision, is unattainable in an attempt to estimate the financial position of Germany at this moment. Her total assets are about $35,000,000,000. Interest on this sum at 5 per cent would be $1,750,000,000 per annum. If we add a sinking fund of 1 per cent an extra $350,000,000 must be provided, and the annual provision required is $2,100,000,000 per annum."

In 1913 the German Imperial revenue was $346,172,725. Assuming that this whole amount were diverted to interest and sinking fund payments, there would be a deficit of $1,750,000,000 arising from war debt disbursements alone and without making a provision for ordinary administrative expenditures.

We take this extraordinary expenditure as a rough German budget total, so far as the expenditure is concerned, of $3,500,000,000 per annum.

Germany, exhausted and impoverished by the war must raise a revenue of four times her present income in order to deal with her own internal obligations and without providing a solitary penny for the colonial empire which she has to meet outside her own frontiers.

STATE JOBS OPEN FOR CIVIL SERVICE TESTS

While the number of applicants for examination to be conducted by the State Civil Service commission during the month of December is greater than it has been for some time, there is an unusual lack of applicants for many branches of state work where vacancies exist. This is especially true in the case of applicants for the positions of assistant examiners, guards for penal institutions, stenographers, superintendents of the Cleveland State hospital, university stenographers, probation officers and field veterinarians. There are a number of places to be filled, and efforts are being made to have more candidates participate in the above named examinations. The non-assigned vacancies for stenographers will also have to be held again in January unless many new candidates file their papers within the next few weeks.

CITY HAS FUEL FOR FAMILIES IN NEED

Mayor Atherton announces that a number of needy families desiring fuel can secure same by making application at his office or field city prison. Some time ago the railroad gave the city hundreds of old railroad ties and these have been sawed up by prisoners and will be distributed. Only a limited number of families can be cared for and those making application will be taken care of in the order in which the requests are received.

GUNS OF NEWARK BOYS DISTURBING

Frank L. Johnson's Rest Broken When Battery Turns Guns on Boche Trenches.

The big guns fired by the Newark boys in Battery B helped to keep Frank L. Johnson, former Y. M. C. A. secretary here, awake in his dugout near the front line trench, according to a letter received yesterday by K. I. Dickerson. Johnson has been near the front line for several weeks and states he has met a large number of Newark boys. Parts of his letter, written November 9, follow:

"There is much excitement in the life here, especially at the rear front where I have been for four weeks now. I am afraid it will be hard for me to work any more unless I have some big noises going on around me. Since the armistice parleying began, we have had it a little quieter. Hope it will continue, though K. I., it seems that I am a lucky dog. I have seen horses and men killed near me many times and have had shells and shrapnel drop near me, but have not yet had a scratch that I was again hit by shells. I have also had machine-gun bullets whizz past me. A man is in danger at any point within six miles of the front lines. Most of my work has been done with this limit, but much of this was as near as a kite to the front line. As I write a big barrage is starting. It is right where the Germans have been shooting into this town from where we expect to clean them out. They had some machine-gun nests there which have been protecting the retreat. I look to see peace soon. I can't see how the enemy can last against such preparations as the allies have made. They can't now that we have the way through Turkey and Austria. We have a decided advantage over them."

"Today I did not go out to my troops, but went to the place of our regional headquarters on a business trip. Rode in a big three-ton truck 20 kilometers to the front. It was rather cold, rain and very muddy. If you could have been along it would have been an interesting trip for you, but it was not new to me and I should have been glad to avoid it. These big guns are giving the Germans hell right now. Guess they'll back up a little."

Yesterday as I went along the road where my troops are, I met a Newark lad by the name of Sands. He came to me and asked me if I were not Mr. Johnson of Newark. He is with another division which is fighting just at our left. I have had the pleasure of meeting a lot of the Newark-Camp Sherman boys lately. They have been shooting their big fellows right near me. Keep me awake some nights.

"Please remember me to all the fellows. By the way, E. S. Randolph is here. Hope to see him soon."

NEWARK DENTISTS TO ATTEND STATE MEETING

Dentists from all parts of Ohio will attend the convention. A feature of the meeting will be a dinner at 6:30 o'clock, Wednesday evening, in honor of Dr. Homer C. Brown of Columbus, in appreciation for the service he has rendered in securing recognition of dentistry in the United States army and navy.

Murgins—"Germany must be fed. It is possible to reach the heart, through shooting the big fellows know." Riggins—"Yes, if you consider that sort of heart work reaching."

This Is Better Than Laxatives

One NR Tablet Each Night For A Week Will Cleanse Your System and Make Constant Dosing Unnecessary. Try it.

Poor digestion and assimilation mean a poorly nourished body and low vitality. Poor elimination means clogged bowels, fermentation, putrefaction and the formation of poisonous gases which are absorbed by the blood and carried through the body. The result is weakness, headache, dizziness, coated tongue, inactive liver, bilious attacks, nervousness, nervousness, poor appetite, impoverished blood, sallow complexion, pimples, skin disease, and often times serious illness.

Ordinary laxatives, purges and cathartics—salts, oils, calomel and the like—may relieve for a few hours, but real, lasting benefit can only come through use of medicine that tones up and strengthens the digestive as well as the eliminative organs.

Get a 25c box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and take one tablet each night for a week. You will feel the very first dose, but a few days will elapse before you feel and realize the full effect. When you get straightened out and feel just right again you need not take medicine every day—an occasional NR Tablet will then keep you in good condition and you will always feel your best. Remember, keeping well is easier and cheaper than getting well.

Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) is sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.

The Best Cough Syrup Is Home-made

Here's an easy way to make 25c and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families the world over feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but it's way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex, then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosen a sore, hoarse or tight throat, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for 25c quantity of Pinex with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

NEWARK SOLDIER HURT IN ACCIDENT IN FRANCE

Mrs. J. M. Hannum has received a letter from her son, Reese Hannum, in France in which he tells of a Newark comrade, Johnny Jones, being injured in France in a collision of his motorcycle with an automobile. The injured man is a brother of Mrs. Bertha Varner residing in East Newark. The letter follows:

November 12, 1918
"I want you to take this letter over to Johnny's sister Bertha as I believe that will be better than for me to write to her direct. Johnny met with an accident Sunday evening while returning from a trip to H. Q. on his motorcycle. He hit another automobile and got hurt. It isn't serious but he will probably be confined in the hospital for several months. His right leg is broken in two places and his right thumb was broken. On account of his thumbs he won't be able to write any letters for awhile and so I guess it will be up to me to do some of his writing for him. I was over to the hospital to see him this afternoon and take some of his equipment over. He was glad to see me and didn't seem to be a bit discouraged, nothing seems to worry him any."

"Well I guess the war is over now so far as the fighting is concerned anyhow and I don't think it will be many months before we will come again."

"Tell Bertha not to worry about Johnny and tell her I will keep her informed as to how he is getting along. They will probably send him home as soon as he is able to move which won't be for a few months anyhow."

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force than to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—a headache—a torpid liver and are constipated, you need quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime. Thousands take one or two every night just to keep right. Try them. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

A Tonic and Health Builder

Remove that warning cough or cold with Calcebras (the calcium tablet). They give strength to combat illness. See boxes at druggists or from ECKMAN LABORATORY, Philadelphia. Manufacturers of Eckman's Alternative.
